Professional Wordsmithing for your Publication Needs

You are a practitioner who has an important story that you need to write and the world needs to hear.

You are ready to dive into the field of peer reviewed Journals and contribute to the literature base.

You see your story on the pages of professional magazines and mainstream publications.

You have a vision.

Yet something stops you. You know the content. You are committed to the process. But life's daily demands make it difficult, if not impossible, to prioritize your writing goals, to sustain your focus, to complete your writing projects with clarity and direction.

Now, you can step into your story with support and realize what your mind's eye already sees.

Relational Embodied Mentoring: Together we can co-create a publishable body of knowledge.

Writers at every level can use some guidance when it comes to shaping and refining their work—writing does not occur in a vacuum. Write To Be's Relational Embodied Mentoring (REM) program provides writers one-on-one access to an experienced teacher, therapist, writer and editor.
