

From Our Readers

Tribute to David Boadella

It is with great sadness that, as we print David's appreciation of the tribute to his work published in our last issue, we also convey the news of his death on November 19th. We offer you, in the In Memoriam section on page 118, David last writings expressing his immense gratitude for the richness of his life.

Dear Antigone,

I am writing to thank you from the depth of my heart for creating the many levels of homage to me in the new issue of the EABP Journal.

I am most grateful to you and to Lily for such a wonderful tribute on my 90th birthday.

Thank you so much.

With love from
David

Dear David

I am so happy that you enjoyed this tribute and the way it was presented.

Dr. Aline LaPierre, our Deputy Editor, and Ms. Christina Bogdanova, our assistant Deputy Editor, designed this wonderful presentation with the material I sent them.

For my part, it was a joyful process and represents a fraction of my gratitude to you and Sylvia, and to Lily, for the many ways Biosynthesis has changed my life.

I wholeheartedly wish you a happy 90th birthday!

With love,
Antigone Oreopoulou

Dear Antigone and Dear Lily,

Congratulations for the wonderful issue!

Thank you from my heart,
Sylvia Boadella

Dear Sylvia,

I am so happy that you liked the issue and the tribute to David. Preparing it was a joyful journey.

A heartfelt thank you for your trust.

Warmly,
Antigone

Dear Madlen, Dear Antigone,

I just received the printed journal. Thank you very much again for the beautiful work you did.

It looks fresh and interesting.

It is so nice that we all love this issue! Congratulations and gratitude to all, it was really done with love!

May we continue to create in this wonderful way!

Best regards,
Lily Anagnostopoulou

About the Cover

Dear Madlen, Dear Editorial Team,

Again, I must congratulate you on another great issue!!!

And again, the cover is magnificent!! It says so much, the nautilus is, of course, as you say, about growth, and having the world in the center and the colors flowing out from it..... well, it is optimistic and hopeful.

My congratulations to the designers.

Of course, what is inside is also of great worth. I haven't been free enough yet to read much – presently the cover is sustaining me very well.

Warmest regards and kudos,
Judyth Weaver

Students from the Bulgarian Institute Send Us Their Feedback

I remember when I first opened the journal during my first year at the Bulgarian Institute. I was amazed by the diversity, the depth, and knowledge of every single article. I felt like a toddler in a world where so much is yet to be discovered. IBPJ has contributed a special extra piece to my learning to walk. I am especially grateful for the holistic view and approach about body psychotherapy the Journal offers.

Miroslava Manavska
*Third-year student,
Bulgarian Institute of Neo-Reichian
Analytical Body Psychotherapy*

I expected a boring, dull journal, full of old stuff, but was pleasantly surprised when I opened it for the first time. It turned out to be full of life. I always find something that touches and enriches me as a person. I impatiently wait for each issue and want to thank the whole Journal team for this opportunity.

Stefka Petrunova
*Second-year student,
Bulgarian Institute of Neo-Reichian
Analytical Body Psychotherapy*

As a student taking my first steps in the fields of psychology and body psychotherapy, IBPJ allows me to meet professionals with various fields of expertise, focus, experience, and worldviews. It is not only the knowledge shared that enriches me, but also the contact with the authors – people whose wisdom and authority I can trust and with whom I would not otherwise have any contact. IBPJ is a shared space for all of us who are moved and inspired to understand the inextricably vital relationship between body and mind, and use that understanding to help ourselves and others.

Kalina Raycheva
*Second-year student,
Bulgarian Institute of Neo-Reichian
Analytical Body Psychotherapy*